CHINESE ARMY GOES "RED"

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

"LOOK" is the name of a brand new picture magazine—and the first issue, on the newsstands this week, is eminently successful: It has enough material on page 6 alone to warrant an investigation by the State of Arkansas. "Look" alleges that one Rufe Persful, an Arkansas convict, in four separate instances killed a fellow convict said to have been escaping, for which Persful was by the state authorities four times paroled. The man, according to "Look," in a space of ten years killed five persons, four of them while he was in prison.

Why Englishmen Don't Like Us, Is Told by A.P. Man

Same Race, Same Language, English Resent Different Manners

THE SIMPSON CASE

But in This Instance Trouble Was Divorce, Not U. S. Birth

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK—(AP)—A gentleman of Nebraska has written to ask if, from long experience as a correspondent in England and in other parts of the British Empire, I can answer two questions: "Do Englishmen really like us," and "Did the Simpson affair make them sore at us?"

It is indeed a much appreciated compliment to be asked to deal with such searching inquiries, but one is grateful that the gentleman of Nebraska did not venture onto anything more delicate than asking what you think of mothers-in-law generally.

The Simpson query—to deal with that first—is inspired by the fact that Mrs. Wallis Simpson, for love of whom King Edward abandoned his throne and went into virtual exile, is American born. The answer is "no"—the matter of nationality did not enter into the case.

A scattering of anti-American Britons have muttered that the trouble was due to "another of those dashed Yankees," but that does not represent the sentiment in England. Many English people are going out of their way to say that Mrs. Simpson's American birth was in no way involved. Edward's subjects would have felt the same about her had she been a native of the British Isles. Britain would not want as queen even a royal princess.

U.S. to Seize Any Arms Shipped to Spain From N. Y.

Federal Investigators Let First Ship Get Away, However

SEVERE PENALTIES

But Disputed Cargo Sails Away to Spanish Radical Government

NEW YORK—(AP)—Federal authorities said Thursday that Department of Justice agents here were prepared to stop the exportation of men, arms and aircraft to Spain through New York. Assistant U. S. Attorney John Dailey, who said Section 16 of the U. S. criminal code provides a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment and $1,000 fine for anyone enlisting or seeking enlistments in foreign wars, has referred the matter to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Arms Broker Wins NEW YORK—(AP)—Robert Cuse, obscure New Jersey army broker, won out in a race with Congress Wednesday and the freighter Mar Cantabrico, was at sea carrying $2,700,000 worth of arms to the Spanish loyal government in defiance of the wishes of President Roosevelt.

While the president was asking Congress for prompt action to prevent the shipment of Cuse's cargo, the Mar Cantabrico was leaving her dock in Brooklyn. Before the new embargo law was passed, she was out of American waters.

Ordered Back, Then Released Early in the afternoon the Mar Cantabrico rounded Sandy Hook, only to be ordered back by the Coast Guard on a libel action. However, it developed that the libel action was against the cargo and not against the ship, so the Coast Guard released her.

The action was brought by two American fliers, Bert Acosta and Gordon Berry, who say they were not paid for their recent flying services for the loyalist government.

Capt. Jose Santa Maria and his crew of 40 promptly started out again and left this time got away. In the cargo were eight planes, including the "Lady Peace" which was flown across the Atlantic and back by Dick Merrill and Harry Richman, the crooner.

The hurried loading of the cargo was begun Tuesday. It had been planned to continue the work all night but finally it was decided that there was too much danger of dropping a crate in the hurry and confusion. Work was resumed at daylight and pier space near the vessel was put under heavy guard.

A band of Spanish loyalist sympathizers offered to aid in the work but the offer was refused. It was reported that the crew went to work beside the stevedores, however. Five minutes after the last crate was swung aboard, the Mar Cantabrico was under way. Not one of the eight planes had been lashed down so hurried was the departure. The hold contained foodstuffs and medicine.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—If business keeps on getting better, and it looks like it will, Congress may have to appoint a committee to find out why. Since the November election there has been a lot of money in circulation but it seems just as hard to get hold of and when you do get it it is as easy to get rid of as a bad cold is to catch, and you feel just as miserable. Another thing Congress ought to look into and probably will if it thinks about it in time, is why a woman will pay $32 for a hat when she can get a bigger one for $2.98, which will hide her face just as much. From the way the papers read here lately the drouth is ended.

Furniture Truck Burns at Fulton

Toll-Bridge House Barely Saved by Hope Fire Department

Fire destroyed a large truck loaded with new furniture and halted traffic for 30 minutes on U. S. Highway 67 in a blaze which originated on the Fulton toll bridge across Red River at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

No one was reported injured, according to J. O. Pool, the bridge tender on duty at the time, although it was thought that the loss to the truck and furniture would total several thousand dollars.

The truck was said to be one operated by the McCoy-Couch Furniture company of Benton, Ark. The vehicle was headed toward Texarkana and the driver and his assistant had just brought a book of tickets when the flames burst out inside the cab, Pool said. The truck and the long trailer were destroyed, together with the furniture.

The blaze threatened the toll house on the bridge, together with the nearby toll-keeper's residence, but a gathering crowd helped push the truck off the bridge, saving the structures. The fire department from Hope arrived within 15 minutes to help fight the blaze but was forced to use only chemicals because of the lack of water pressure.

It was thought that the fire originated from a short in the motor.

British Fleet Moves

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—British warships were ordered to strategic maneuvers in the Mediterranean Wednesday night and there were reports of a decisive move to stop the influx of foreign men and arms to Spain.

Worried by announcement that a British contingent would sail this week to join Spanish Socialists, the British government was reported to DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—Governor Frank Murphy and James Dewey of the United States Department of Labor engaged Thursday in a series of conferences with the General Motors corporation and representatives of striking employees to avert the threat of a general strike in the company's automotive plants.

The governor said prospects of a settlement of differences blocking direct negotiations were "looking good."

250,000 North China Troops Join With 50,000 Communists

SIANFU, Shensi Province, China—(AP)—It was reported here Thursday that the majority of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's former Manchurian army had joined Red troops of Shensi and Kansu provinces in an open revolt against the central government to establish a vast Communist empire in Northwest China.

The reports said that 250,000 troops of Marshal Chang's old command had joined forces with an army of 50,000 Communists.

China, Russia, Japan Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang made four unsuccessful campaigns against Chinese Communists, and then the head of the Chinese republic, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, resumed command and defeated the Reds in a single campaign.

The next chapter occurred when Kai-Shek pardoned him—but the Chiang's headquarters city was suddenly seized by his subordinate general, Hsueh-Liang later released Kai-Shek, and himself stood trial for treason. Kai-Shek pardoned him—but the infection of North China's armies with Communism continued, resulting today in the reported revolt of 1/4 million soldiers.

The Chinese situation is quoted by Japan as being the reason for her colonial expeditions on the mainland of Asia. Japan contends that Generalissimo Kai-Shek's Chinese administration is unable to cope with the influence of Red Russia, and unless Japan establishes buffer states on the Asiatic mainland the wave of Communism will eventually destroy Tokyo. Chiang Kai-Shek, however, pursues a middle-of-the-road policy, executing Communists at home, and avoiding war abroad with Japan.

On the Firing Line in Auto Labor War Leaders Map General Motors Strike As 'Sitdowners' Hold Fort

Today's Picture Story

Invested with full power to call a strike of 275,000 workers in 69 General Motors plants, a union "board of strategy" was named to direct a major offensive against the mammoth corporation, five of the board members being shown here as they met in Flint, Mich., to plan their campaign. Left to right are Leo Krzycki, vice president Amalgamated Clothing Workers; John Brophy, C. I. O. director; Adolph Guerner, C. I. O. organizer in the auto industry; Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, and Allan Haywood, C. I. O. representative. Other auto union executives were included on the board, as was Glen W. McCabe, president of the Flat Glass Workers.

"Headquarters," where strike leaders inside one of the Fisher Body plants in Flint kept in touch with strikers outside, was maintained at this information window, with workers shown eagerly reaching for books, newspapers, and mail. The strikers laid down seven "conditions of settlement"—minimum wage, 30-hour week, abolition of piecework pay, seniority rights, union recognition, reinstatement of discharged union men, and a speed of production plan.

Meals on schedule was the order of the day for the "sitdown" strikers in the Fisher Body plants in Flint, where 8200 workers were affected by the suspension of work leading to the great drive against General Motors. At the left is shown the strike committee's commissary. There food donated by sympathizers was stored and then rationed out to workers staying inside the plant in defiance of an injunction, after hooting away the sheriff. In addition, meals were prepared in nearby restaurants by wives and other relatives of the strikers. The scene at the right shows the cooks busily at work, the food, steaming hot, being passed through plant windows to the "sitdowners."

Infection, Irritation, Prolonged Use of Voice Cause Hoarseness
By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Man is the talking animal, communal with other men by speech. When a man loses his voice, he is said to be dumb, and it is not strange that the word should also mean "stupid," when applied to a man who is unable to speak intelligibly with another. Hence the loss of the voice or its improper use is always a serious disturbance.
When your voice gets hard and husky, you are likely to suspect that you are catching cold. When nose and throat become infected, the infection frequently extends down the throat into the larynx, or voice box. The larynx contains the vocal cords, which give sound to the voice.
There are, however, many other causes of hoarseness, which may come on at any time in life. Babies may cry hoarsely almost immediately after birth because of some infection or some mechanical disturbance that affects action of the vocal cords.
As the child grows older, he begins to talk. He will not talk intelligently until he is anywhere from 18 to 24 months old, and some children fail to talk until they are much older. By the end of his first year, the child may use several simple words. In two years he should be using simple, short sentences.
Some children fail to talk early because every wish is anticipated and they do not have to ask for anything. It should be remembered that the child may learn to talk through imitation. Parents should not use "baby talk" to the youngster as he will imitate the kind of talk he hears.
As the child gets older, sudden hoarseness may be brought on by diphtheria or some other infectious disease. Girls occasionally become hoarse in connection with hysterical symptoms.
The habit of talking in a well-modulated voice, with proper emphasis, may be developed by training and proper study of use of the voice. A soft voice, with suitable emphasis when required, is an important factor in success in any walk of life.
Nowadays, besides learning to talk suitably for ordinary conversation, and over the telephone, it is necessary also for many to learn proper use of the voice on the radio. The success of many a man in modern political life has depended on his ability to project his personality through his voice in radio broadcasts.
Hoarseness often occurs after prolonged use of the voice, but also after straining it unnecessarily to emphasize a point or to reach great numbers of people.
Business men frequently complain of hoarseness after long conversations associated with excessive eating, drinking, and smoking.
It is now recognized that throats and vocal cords of some persons may be especially sensitive to various ingredients of tobacco smoke. The intelligent individual soon will learn to associate his attacks of hoarseness with such factors and to avoid them if he wishes to protect his throat and vocal cords.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton
Order of Happiness
Few women work happily in a cluttered house. Perhaps there are some who develop a certain lethargy toward order after a while, and go about their duties automatically with curtains awry and rugs kicked up. The mother of tiny children gets accustomed to toys all over the place, and sleeps just as well, knowing that the hall is a shambles of muddy galoshes, sleds and other paraphernalia of the older children. This is to be expected with a growing family, more or less. Nevertheless, most women do get less tired and nervous when their work shows for something.
But perhaps there isn't room. Small houses and apartments are not the easy things to keep groomed that the average man thinks. He is so likely to say, "When we get into a smaller place, Mary, it will be so much easier for you." And Mary probably thinks so, too, because there are fewer windows to wash and smaller rooms to clean.
With Nails and Boards
I do not mean that everyone should have a big house. This is impossible; but I believe that both men and women should give more thought to arrangement, so that there will be places to put things away.
Mrs. Smith says that there is no place for her to chuck the toys but in the hall closet. This means that no one can get into it after six p. m. Yet if John Smith would take the pains and trouble to hunt up a big box, put hinges on the lid, and paint it, there is probably room for it, either in the hall or beside the buffet in the dining room. A few cubic feet that no one

HOLLYWOOD

By Paul Harrison
There May Be Second Garbo in Gable
HOLLYWOOD.—It may be only coincidence, but a lot of evidence exists to show that there is a 10-year cycle of personalities in Hollywood.
Samuel Goldwyn says so. What started him to thinking about a personality cycle was a discussion of his preparations for filming "Stella Dallas."
It was first screen in 1926, and brought fame to Belle Bennett, Lois Moran, Renald Colman, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Alice Joyce, and some others. Now that the right people have popped up in Hollywood, he's going to do it again, with sound.
Of course, too, the memory-span of movie fans is a factor. Great pictures probably will be remade time after time. But Goldwyn believes that, so far as the fans are concerned, a 10-year interval isn't necessary. Look at the celebrated plays which are revived every few years.
The important thing, he says, is casting. Of course there is no hard-and-fast rule, but it seems that a decade usually lies between the rises of duplicate personalities.
This is partly because players strive for individuality. For example, no actress wants to be "a second Garbo," but 10 years hence some actress may be Garboesque without being charged with imitating the original.

Out at Barnum's Century-Yok they are just starting work on "Seventh Heaven," which brought fame to Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor in 1927. Now it is being reproduced, with Simone Simon and James Stewart in the top spots.
"Smilin' Through" was a great hit in 1922. Carrying out the 10-year cycle, it was filmed with sound in 1932 with Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard, and Fredric March.
In 1928 Emil Jannings, and Lya De Putti made a great sensation in "Variety." Today the nearest prototype of Jannings is Edward G. Robinson, so he'll play the male lead in a new production of "Variety." The girl hasn't been selected, but there are several to choose from.
"Ruggles of Red Gap" was made by Paramount in 1924, and again in 1934.
"The Last of Mrs. Cheney" is being the cycle by two years because the right people are available at M-G-M. It was first filmed in 1929, and soon will be released with a new cast—Joan Crawford, William Powell, Robert Montgomery, et al.
People Comeback
"Phantom of the Opera" was a super-colossal craze when Universal released it in 1925. Holding to tradition, the studio announced in 1936 that the picture would be made again.
The role played by the late Lon Chaney hasn't been assigned, but it almost certainly will go to Peter Lorre if he is available.
A 20-year interval occurred between screen versions of "Romeo and Juliet." The late Irving Thalberg had planned the recent production for years; he died in 1928, but it took a long time find the rest of the cast.
Another hit that was withheld beyond the usual cycle was "Little Lord Fauntleroy." It took 15 years, with Freddie Bartholomew finally pinching for Mary Pickford.
"The Winning of Barbara Worth" was produced by Samuel Goldwyn in 1926, released in 1927. That was the picture which brought prominence to Gary Cooper. Goldwyn may remake the drama this year, but he isn't saying whether it may have the same leading man.

A Woman Surmised
Such probing into the past recalls an untold story: six years old, about Robert Montgomery and Greta Garbo. He's the only man who ever forgot a date with the actress.
In 1920 they were co-starring in "Inspiration," and, on the second day of production, Montgomery asked if Miss Garbo would lunch with him on the following day. Miss Garbo said yes. And the actor forgot all about it.
A week later Miss Garbo's maid knocked at Montgomery's dressing room and said her mistress wanted to see him. He put aside his lunch and went outside. The woman was sitting in her car. She said, "Get in."
"But I'm just having lunch," protested the actor.
"Get in!" said Greta. He got in. She said, "A week ago you invite me to lunch and do not take me. I now invite you to lunch and I am taking you." They drove to a busy sandwich

The body of Peter Shaw, placed in the house chapel, has disappeared. Later human and Angelique, leaving and has been burned. Pearl Pierre announces that officers have been sent for. Next morning, Peter Shaw is found to be dead. He is found, lifeless, below a rocky ledge, the same knife killed his brother, in his throat.
Pearl John announces he is going to the kitchen to get the knife he uses to get it. He accuses BROCKEN SHAW, Indian servant of the murders, and Tante Josephine defends him. Next morning she, too, is dead, and Brocken Sheld has disappeared.
Professor Shaw investigates the basement of the house, finds a hidden passage and is about to enter it when someone springs on him. Pearl John, Bob and human find the professor unconscious.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX
THE professor was alive and when the tape-line had been cut away from his throat he began to breathe more naturally.
The three younger men carried Professor Shaw to his bedroom, restoratives were applied. After several hours, however, the professor still lay in a coma, unable to tell what happened to him, though the marks on his neck told only too plainly that the attempt on his life had been real enough.
So the menace hanging over all of them was still actively at work! Doors were locked and double-locked that night.
Next morning the storm had blown itself out. De Forest at once set men to clearing the road down the canyon. As soon as this was completed he hurried two servants off once more to Santa Fe.
Angelique apparently had regained her composure but Pearl John noticed that she kept a close watch on Betty, especially when the other girl happened to be talking to Ramon. Pearl John was relieved when the Spanish girl finally disappeared in the direction of her own room. He might not have felt so comfortable if he could have watched her thereafter. For she did enter her bedroom but, after casting a swift glance around, walked straight to

A Book a Day By Bruce Catton

Splendid Biography of Tyrant of Andes
For really efficient and watertight dictatorship, we generally look to Europe. Latin America has bred plenty of dictators, but most of them are hit and run specialists—men who believe in looting the treasury while the looting is good and then heading for a safe hide-out in Paris or New York.
But there was one of them who could have given Hitler and Mussolini lessons—Gomez of Venezuela.
For 27 years Gomez ran Venezuela like a feudal chief. His tyranny was all-embracing and effective. Plenty of people wanted him out of there, but no one ever translated wish into effective action. And he died, at last, peacefully and in bed—a rare thing for a dictator anywhere, and especially in Latin America.

Thomas Rourke has written a fine biography of the man—"Gomez, Tyrant of the Andes" Morrow $3.50—and while I should have called your attention to it much earlier, this belated notice may not be amiss.
Gomez was born to poverty and he had a wild and mispent youth. He became a soldier, at last, and when President Castro left the country in 1908 for a trip to Europe, Gomez took over the government for himself.
Thereafter his word was law. He became fabulously wealthy. Never bothering to marry, he produced nearly 100 children. And although he created one of the most brutal dictatorial machines on record, he did give his country economic advancement. Venezuela today is debt-free.
All in all, he was a man worth reading about, and Mr. Rourke talks about him in scholarly and readable style.

The last congress of the United States appropriated public funds at the rate of more than $70,250,000 a day for each of the 282 days of both its sessions.
the Indians believed communicated directly with the spirits of the underworld.
Angelique shivered and drew back with the feeling that she was desecrating mysterious forces, whose unknown powers might still be felt in this ancient shrine. Quickly she retraced her steps. More than once she glanced over her shoulder, but she emerged from the secret panel without accident and found herself again in the storeroom. Giving the panel a little push, she was amazed to see it glide back into place, leaving not the slightest crack to show its location.
She pressed it again at about the place where she had fallen against it. After a little experimenting she found the spot where it responded to her hand. Grimly pleased that she thus held the secret of the house in her grasp, she made her way up the stairs and carefully opened the door at the top. No one was about, so she stepped out, shut and locked the door and walked away.

Once more in her own room, she reviewed her adventure in detail. The thought flashed through her mind that if the de Forests found the secret rooms convenient for keeping things, why shouldn't she, too, put them to use? Suppose she could get Betty Welch, for instance, down those steps and behind that sliding panel. It would be a perfect revenge for the tales Betty had told de Forest about her.
THE more Angelique toyed with this idea, the more certain she felt that no one could possibly lay the blame on her.
Taking a thick woolen sweater from her suitcase, she went to the basement door and unlocked it. Then she walked to Betty's room and knocked. A minute later the two girls were strolling past the door with the knocker.
For a moment Angelique hesitated, looking back down the hall. Then, with a lightning movement, one of Angelique's arms went around Betty's neck, a sweater over her head. Betty struggled but beneath Angelique's soft skin was strength which rendered the slim Betty helpless.
She was roughly dragged through the door and down the steps. A rope that had been near one of the packing boxes was tied about her. The sliding panel opened and she was pushed through.

THE ray from her torch swept the other parts of the room, but there was only bare adobe to be seen. Then she looked at the floor. Sure enough, in the exact center was the ancient sipapu. This was the small hole which

Society Natural Beauty Attains Stardom

We Resolve

To cherish dreams of loveliness, of silver and of blue;
To find the trail to fairyland, where all the paths are new;
To make a garden blossom with old, forgotten flowers;
To find a gleam of beauty, as we watch the passing hours;
To find a better pattern for the warp that we must weave,
To know that life is always good, tho sometimes we must grieve,
To read a shining splendor in the tales the far stars tell;
To laugh through weeping rain drops and to feel that all is well;
To look for golden rainbows, to love the simple things,
The dream-blue of the summer sky, the song the robin sings,
To dare to send our ships to sea, but find a gallant crew
To keep their crimson sails aloft—
This, we resolve to do.—Selected.

The Friday Music club will hold its first meeting of the New Year on Friday at the home of Mrs. Edwin Stewart, Corner North Hervey and West Avenue D. The Choral club meets promptly at 2 o'clock, followed by the study at 3. Please come prepared to pay dues.

A short business meeting was held after which the mothers were counted, with Mrs. Witt's room having the majority.

thin, unnatural-looking lines. She wears powder to match her dark skin, washes her face with soap and water twice a day, uses practically no eye makeup in the daytime.

Encouragement for All
That a fresh, simple, wholesome kind of beauty now is rated tops in the movie industry should encourage all beauty-minded women to brush their hair regularly, cleanse faces and throats more carefully and try to attain correct proportions. It is as shortsighted to diet until you are positively skinny as it is to eat so much that you get too fat.

Try to get enough exercise and plenty of sleep, the two beauty tonics that ward off lines and wrinkles and keep away circles underneath your eyes. Drink milk and fruit juices for the sake of your teeth, hair and nails. Take a bath every day and put on fresh stockings and underwear each morning. In other words, be the clean, wholesome, fresh looking star of your own domain!

The girls who rose to stardom in 1936 are proof enough that naturalness is the keynote of beauty. Some of them are exotic-looking, of course, but they were born that way—not made over by makeup men and hairdressers. Generally speaking, however, the favored few are the healthy, wholesome school-girl type rather than ultra-sophisticated, vampish looking as were Theda Bara and other favorites of her time.

Simone Simon, the little French girl who has been such a sensational success during the past 12 months, is supposed to have sex-appeal plus, but hers is a winsomely reticent, almost fragile kind of allure. She is slender as a reed and has interesting, slanting eyes, yet is a far cry from the out and out, half-starved-looking sex-appeal girl of a few years ago.

Blond Co-ed Shines
Frances Farmer, another young beauty, with blond hair which shimmered because it has been brushed and cared for properly, and skin that looks fresh and glowing, also became a star in 1936. A few years ago, Frances was ushering in a theater in Seattle to earn money to get through the University of Washington. Then she won a popularity contest, the prize for which was a screen test. Since then she's been in many pictures, and attained real stardom during the past year.

A motion picture scout saw Luise Rainer, another 1936 headliner, on the stage in Vienna and brought her to this country to become an important star. Dark, elfin-like, with closely cropped hair, generally windblown, and sparkling eyes, she is five feet four inches tall, weighs 115 pounds. She swims, plays tennis, plays the piano, sings and dances.

Olivia de Havilland is the fresh, American schoolgirl type. Her soft brown hair, not died or tinted or arranged in any strange theatrical manner, is shiny and glossy. Her eyebrows do not straggle down over her lids, of course, nor are they tweezed into flowers brightened the rooms, dispelling the gloom of the rainy afternoon. Continuing in the History of Arkansas, Mrs. Hugh Jones, introduced the subject with a most interesting discussion of the First Territorial Governor, Statesman, Editors and Jurists. Mr. T. R. Billingsley gave the products and industries of the counties under discussion. The scenery, resorts and playgrounds were discussed by Mrs. J. A. Henry. The program closed with a paper on the Pioneer and Modern Builders by Mrs. C. M. Agee. Following the program, a most tempting salad and sandwich course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. D. Lester, Mrs. O. A. Graves and Miss Beryl Henry.

Among the many delightful holiday remonies was the one at the home of Mrs. W. P. Yeager on South Walnut street. A tempting dinner was served to the following sons and daughters: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Yeager and family of Tecumseh, Kan.; Chester Yeager of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Yeager and family, of San Antonio, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans and family, of Antlers, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. John Bagley and family, of Columbus, Ark.; Mrs. Burgher Jones and family, of Hope; and Venie Yeager, also of Hope.

The Hope Cemetery association will meet Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the first Methodist church. All members are urged to be present.

Spotlight Again Hits Baby Marie

The comedy she portrayed as "Baby Marie" Osborne in movie films years ago was missing for Mrs. Marie Dempsey, top photo, as she told in Los Angeles court that her husband, a steel worker, stayed out late, showed up for breakfast with lipstick on his face, and claimed the lipstick was hers, when she "knew better." She won a divorce. Lower photo shows her as she appeared when she was the first baby star of the films.

Predicts National Race to Be Close

Six Baseball Clubs Appear to Be Stronger for 1937 Season

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—A year of "renewed prosperity" as President Ford calls it—and of a tighter pennant race among five and possibly six clubs appears in store for the National League in 1937.

As the hot-stoves begin to disband their winter proceedings and ground-keepers start readying training camps for the southern invasion, those two factors loom above all others, notwithstanding such sidelights as Dizzy Dean's war of words with the Cardinals, other threatened holdouts and the New York Giants' chances of repeating their miracle.

There seems little reason to doubt that the large crowds which skyrocketed major league baseball far out of the red last year won't be back. With the expansion of the profitable night ball to St. Louis, new personalities in the game, youngsters taking over key jobs on most clubs, and what appears to be a more even distribution of playing strength, the turnstiles should click in an even merrier pace.

Giants are weaker. The Giants are definitely regarded as a weaker club than the one which staged its amazing climb to win the pennant. As a result, the 1937 title chase shapes up as anybody's affair, with the strengthened Cardinals and the dangerous Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates as the standouts, and the newly experienced "kid team" at Cincinnati also rated a possibility. And you can pretty well put the Boston Red Sox down as the "dark horse," while the Phillies and Dodgers again look to be the "week sisters."

With the exception of Casey Stengel at Brooklyn, whose job is being taken over by tobacco-chewing Burleigh Grimes, all the managers will be back at the old stand. However, the ranks of those who play as well as pilot will be considerably thinned. Bill Terry's first-losing days with the Giants are definitely over. Charley Grimm should see little if any infield duty at Chicago. Frankie Frisch is no longer the Fordham flash in the St. Louis infield, and it is doubtful if Jimmy Wilson will put on the mask and pads for the Phillies to any great extent.

Terry To Bench. With Terry on the bench for keeps and the aging Travis Jackson managing the club's new International League farm at Jersey City, the Giants' infield needs rebuilding. At the same time, the chances of Carl Hubbell's repeating his remarkable 1936 pitching record are questionable, and therefore, he'll need plenty of help from a hurling troupe that looked none too good in '36.

This department likes the Pirates to succeed Bill Terry's troupe as pennant winners. The Bucs are due to snap out of it, after three years of kicking chances away. The addition to Dutch Brandt from Brooklyn gives an already well-rounded pitching staff needed first-rate left hander, thus adding better balance on a team that, on paper, has been potential pennant contender since 1934.

Warneke Help to Cards. The addition of Lon Warneke from the Cubs eliminates to a large extent the major weakness of the Cards last year. The 18 games he won in 1936, if repeated, will be a big help to a pitching staff that was largely Dizzy Dean a year ago.

If they can keep from the batting dockdrums that proved so costly last season, the Cubs will be one of the toughest, what with their top flight pitching and the acquisition of hard-hitting Ripper Collins from St. Louis to plug a long-felt hole left at first base.

Ouachita Schedule Will Take Team Into Several States

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—(Special)—The Ouachita College basketball team will play its first game of the season here Thursday night, opposing the Kruger basketball team of Little Rock. Coach Bill Walton is arranging a schedule that may take the Tigers into several other states.

Games already have been arranged with LSU Northeast Center College at Monroe, La., and here. The Tigers at the present have had very little practice but promise to be a strong quintet before the middle of the season.

Wild Life Valued at Billion a Year in U. S.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Fishing and hunting in the United States is a billion-dollar business annually, according to the American Wild Life Institute booklet, "The Dollar in the Duck," just released.

The institute, in attempting to increase business in conservation, stresses the fact that hunters and fishermen spend that billion annually in pursuing their hobbies in all sections of the country. Alarming decrease in fish and game through lack of restocking and conservation is going to eliminate this revenue if business men do not back the movement.

the chances of the Bees. If these produce, the second year of the new administration that proved successful in its debut should be even better.

Big things are expected of Cincinnati's young Reds. They surprised by barely finishing out of the first division last year, and with that season of experiencing under their belts, they should be even more dangerous in the coming campaign.

Conway College Suffers First Defeat of Cage Season

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—(AP)—Unimpressed by the double championship claims of their opposition, the Springfield Teachers College Bears bottled up Arkansas State Teachers College of Conway here Wednesday night and recorded a 31-25 victory.

It was the fourth straight win for the Bears, who rallied after a two-point deficit at the half. Gordon Newman scored 13 points, 11 in the last half, to lead the Springfield attack. It was the first defeat of the season for Conway, collegiate and AAU champions of Arkansas.

Rose Seeks to Strengthen Team for First Conference Battle

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Coach Glen Rose groomed four first-year University of Arkansas pig performers Wednesday for probable action this week-end against Baylor University Bears in hope one of them will blossom into a headline performer.

As he sent the Razorback basketballers through a long workout, Rose hoped one of his sophomores would keep intact his record of producing a first year sensation annually.

In 1934 Center H. L. "Ike" Poole was "the bright light," Forward Elwin Gilliland starred as a sophomore in 1935 and Forward Don Lockard was the fair haired lad last season. Gilliland and Lockard are mainstays of the current Razorback club.

The four men receiving the coach's attentions Wednesday were Center Freeman Goza, Centerville, Mo.; Forward Neil Martin, Texarkana; Guard Glen Smith, Harrison, and Guard Harold Brady, Webbers Falls, Okla.

The Baylor series Friday and Saturday nights will be the opening conference engagements for both teams.

have made strong representations over the delayed Italian decision.

"Certain instructions" indicating Britain's future course, were impressed upon Rome officials in a communication by Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador. These instructions were secret but many believed they set forth a definite course of action contemplated by Britain.

Indications were the Italian and German replies, to be made soon, would be noncommittal. The 17 British warships were ordered to change their bases in the Mediterranean to relieve others—between Malta, Gibraltar, Palma, Valencia and "Spanish waters." The shifts would be made, so that for an unspecified period all warcraft would be in the area at the same time.

(French reports were that Britain and France were considering a naval blockade of the Spanish coast.)

Archibald Fenner Brockway, secretary of the Independent Labor party, announced impending departure of the Englishmen to fight with the Socialists.

"We have no objection to stating that these men are going to Spain as volunteers to take part in the fighting," Brockway said. "They are all men of military experience." He did not say how many were going.

Observers estimated that there are now 15,000 Italians and 10,000 Germans fighting with the Fascists and that about 1,000 British nationals are with Socialist troops.

The Foreign Office, embarrassed by the British enlistments, is without legal means to halt them.

High government sources, referring to the Mediterranean maneuvers, observed that "we are not getting up on our heels about the situation there. We have plenty of ships to take care of any emergency."

They are members of the Spinners' Society of Canton, sworn never to marry. When forced into marriage by old-fashioned families, they pay alimony to their husbands rather than live with them.

The alimony goes to hire concubines for the husbands.

200 Players Seek to Qualify for Winter Golf Campaign

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—Opening guns of the $8000 Los Angeles open, richest event of California's winter golf campaign, sounded on scattered fountains Wednesday as 200 ambitious players sought to qualify for the tournament.

A trimmed field of 128 will go into the 72-hole battle Friday, with a check for $2500 awaiting the winner in the final 18 holes Monday. Twenty nine top notch performers, including ex-champions of the event, were exempt from Wednesday's qualifying round.

Los Angeles' twelfth annual open will be played over the Wilson course at Griffith Park, a municipal layout carefully planned along sporty lines but hardly a severe test of great golfing.

Those indicted were:

Day Capt. Arch Cooper, Lieut. Cecil Brock, head of the Identification Bureau; Night Capt. Robert Moore, Detective R. G. (Glenn) Buchanan, Patrolman Press Griffin, Officer Joe Scott, in charge of the street patrol squad car, and Patrolman Andy Irwin.

The indictments followed three days of continuous investigation into the death of Dickson, who died in the New Park hospital Christmas Eve, following his removal from the city jail.

Dickson, a former Oklahoma convict and resident of Perry county, had been sought since September 28 when he and his cousin, Alfred (Fug) Dickson, assaulted Chief of Police Joe Wakelin. The chief had led a delegation of officers from Hot Springs and other county seats into Perry county, seeking arrest of the Dicksons and their companions. They were wanted for questioning in connection with theft

New Softball Rules Will Speed Up Game

DETROIT.—(NEA)—Two new rules suggested by the joint softball rules committee, and now being circulated for a mail vote to all sections of the country, are designed to speed up the game in 1937.

The first deals with the pitcher. According to the new regulations, he must stand with both feet in contact with the pitcher's plate, facing the batter, and in delivery of the ball, make only one step, and that forward. A step backward or sideways will cause a pitch to be ruled illegal.

The second deals with a runner on third on an illegal pitch. In the past he has been made to hold the bag until the ball has passed home plate. The new rule permits him to score when the umpire calls an illegal pitch.

of automobiles and safe blowing in Hot Springs.

The death certificate said that Dickson died from pneumonia. Dr. Euclid Smith and Dr. J. S. Stiel performed an autopsy at the request of Dickson's father, Jim Dickson, of Hollis, Perry county. The physicians reported that they found evidence that indicated Dickson had been handled roughly while a prisoner in the city jail. The physicians said that the injuries were sufficient to have caused Dickson's death.

The report said that no evidence was presented to involve Chief of Police Joe Wakelin with mistreatment of Dickson or other prisoners. However, the Grand Jury censured Chief Wakelin for not maintaining better control over his subordinates.

ness who had divorced two husbands and who had been courted by the King while she was still married to her second.

"Do Englishmen really like us?" I have lived with, fought with and played with British peoples for 18 years. Let it be said here that I like and admire them; many of my best friends are British.

Baseball Officials to Discuss Plans for Reorganization

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—Harry Hatcher, Jacksonville hotel proprietor and baseball enthusiast, said representatives of interested cities will meet at Montgomery, Alabama, Sunday to discuss plans for reviving the old Southeastern league.

Cities Hatcher said he expected to have agents at the session are Pensacola, Mobile, Montgomery, Meridian, Selma, Jackson, Gadsden and Anniston.

following:

The British like the individual American who is likeable. They do not have any great fondness for Americans as a whole.

There are many things the Englishman dislikes about us as a whole. For one thing he is extremely conservative and is intensely annoyed by any excess of aggressiveness—American or otherwise—which results in loud-mouthed ostentation, or intrusion. He resents the hand-shaking, I come from - God's-own-country, glad-to-have-you-know-me type of thing.

The American method of proceeding to a man's office to do business without an appointment is another bugbear to the Englishman. He may admire American initiative at a distance, but doesn't want our salesmanship applied to him personally.

Here is an illustration of the general feeling:

The American Way When I first went to England many years ago, I applied for and was granted an interview with a prominent member of the cabinet. That sort of thing was a novelty to most London newspapermen. One of my English colleagues, who also wrote on government affairs but who never had tried for an interview, was highly indignant with me.

"That's the sort of thing an American would do," he snipped. "I realize that in Washington a reporter can walk in to the private office of the secretary of state without being announced, put his feet on the secretary's desk, and spit tobacco juice on

Perry Scores Vines at

Net Classic Fought 17,630 Fans at Madison Square Garden

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Fred Perry, England, world amateur champion the past three years, signaled professional debut Wednesday with a dope-upsetting 7-5, 3-6, victory over Ellsworth Vines, California holder of the world title, in Madison Square Garden for a crowd of 17,630 spectators.

Obviously rattled at the start, quickly recovered from an attack of buck fever and with characteristic doggedness, amazing and steady, rallied from the underdog role which him on the short end of 1½ to 1 in the pre-match betting.

Living up to press notices on widely separated moments, and giving only flashes of his vicious hitting, Vines was off form besides being handicapped by a cold and a temperature of 100.3 degrees. Except for those flashes, best shot was into the net, times it was due to weak execution and other times to Perry's tactics.

As a matter of fact the match, a shotmaking and competitive one, failed to live up to the expectations for the largest crowd in tennis history, which paid $58,119.50 with the prices ranging from $1.10 to $9.00. Standing room going at $2.20 per seat. Neither was brilliant, although Perry came closer to approximating the form which won him every amateur title since 1934.

the carpet. But it isn't done here.

The average Englishman dislikes the language—particularly the extreme slang—and our nasal accent drives him to distraction. One thing that irritates him is the effort made by the Americans to speak with an English accent. There isn't one American, 10,000 who ever achieves a "correct" English accent. Attempts to imitate the English are pretty appalling.

Dress Too Loud

The penchant of some American men for extremes in dress causes much unfavorable comment, especially among Englishmen who wear

Let an American follow our custom of shifting the fork from the left to the right hand every time a modification of food is taken, and he will find whole dining-rooms in England waiting for him in disdain.

To sum the thing up, the English thinks Americans (as a whole) are crude, loud-mouthed, too aggressive, and extremists in most ways.

As already stated, however, the individual American lady or gentleman of conservative persuasions, will find a warm welcome in England.

Political Friends

Moreover, most Britons feel that the peace and progress of the world depend on close friendship between America and the British Commonwealth of Nations. Many of them say they would like to see an Anglo-American offensive and defensive alliance.

The relations between the two countries are, of course, of the best. Underlying some of the feeling about our ways and customs is an unspoken resentment because America has a lot of the limelight from the England in both trade and world affairs.

Also, because of our strong British ancestry we are expected to be like the English, and any deviation from a turning up of noses. Just as my New York City friends look with scorn on my Vermont liking for pie at breakfast, so the Englishman views all "idiosyncrasies."

Now I am going to think up one

Gay Night Club Revelers Caught "Off Guard" by Watchful Candid Camera

If you got about New York like the watchful candid camera, what interesting expressions you could see as celebrities make merry, oblivious to crowds around them. As a starter, look in on the intimate toast to each other's health being drunk by handsome Earl of Warwick and gorgeous Marjorie Gage.

The party will be starting with a bang any minute now. Someone's sure to stick a lighted cigarette against the balloon the pretty reveler works so hard to blow up.

And is Mrs. John H. Livingston having a good time? The laughs on you if you think she lets her position in society cramp her delight in the merrymaking.

Next stop is to watch stunning Helen Patrick hanging on her escort's every word, warming him with a smile that would melt the hardest heart.

At still another club, Prince David Mdivani (remember his brothers) wears an expression that's puzzling considering the proximity of Miss F. Glendening.

Before going home, let's stop at just one more place. Ah, what a contrast in expressions we have here. Can't you hear the gay young lady saying: "Aw, come on! Take just a little-bitty sip?" But apparently her companion is thinking of the morrow, for he can't arouse much interest in the heady stuff she urges upon him.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

The serfs of the Ukraine, some 100 years ago, used to sing new songs of humor and tragedy that soon caught the fancy of a wealthy Russian. He sought out the young man who wrote these homely legends and bought his freedom.

The poetic serf was Taras Shevchenko. It was 1838 and he was 24. He continued to write, mostly tragic tales in verse of cruelties visited upon his people. He joined a secret society, and continued to harass the czar's officials with his revolutionary poetry. He was arrested in 1847 and sentenced to serve in the army at Orenburg, on the Siberian frontier.

Practically in exile for 10 years, he continued sending back to his people verses describing his experiences and his thoughts. Finally Count Fedore Tolstoi, the great author, gained the poet's freedom in 1857. Shevchenko died four years later, aged 47.

During the five years in which Ukrainians were independent, the country issued its own stamps. Among these were two types portraying Shevchenko, the poet.

New Anti-Freeze by Ford Company

Superior to Alcohol, and Has Slower Rate of Evaporation

A new motorcar anti-freeze solution, offering engine protection to a temperature five degrees lower than ordinary denatured alcohol, has been announced by the Ford Motor company.

The new anti-freeze solution is available at all Ford dealerships in the Memphis Branch territory, according to J. K. Lester, branch manager.

This new solution also acts as a rust and corrosion preventative. Its effectiveness as an anti-freeze mixture is derived from the use of isopropyl alcohol, a petroleum derivative, to which is added a quantity of pure methanol. In addition, the Ford solution contains a soluble oil which effectively retards evaporation. This means that Ford anti-freeze does not have to be replenished as often as does ordinary alcohol anti-freeze solution. It sells in the same price range as alcohol.

Humble Oilcloth Rises in Opinion

In Red and White Checks,
It Now Adorns Smart
Dinner Table

By MARY DAVIS GILLIES
Prepared by McCall's Magazine for the Associated Press

Cinderella oilcloth has come out of the kitchen. Colorful and styled to the minute, the once humble material no longer depends only on its washability for its popularity.

The new roles it plays are as exciting as they are useful. The dining room being next to the kitchen, it is natural that the new oilcloth should be welcomed to the table.

In flowered dories it comes right in to luncheon. In a full-length blue and red plaid cloth, it appears at the Sunday night buffet and makes a perfect background for wooden salad bowls and pottery casseroles. Many of the new plaids are just right for modern dining rooms and others for peasant or cottage effects.

The new tablecloths go back to the red and white checks of the old New England farmhouse—or are modern in a new Mexican pattern, with border strip to match.

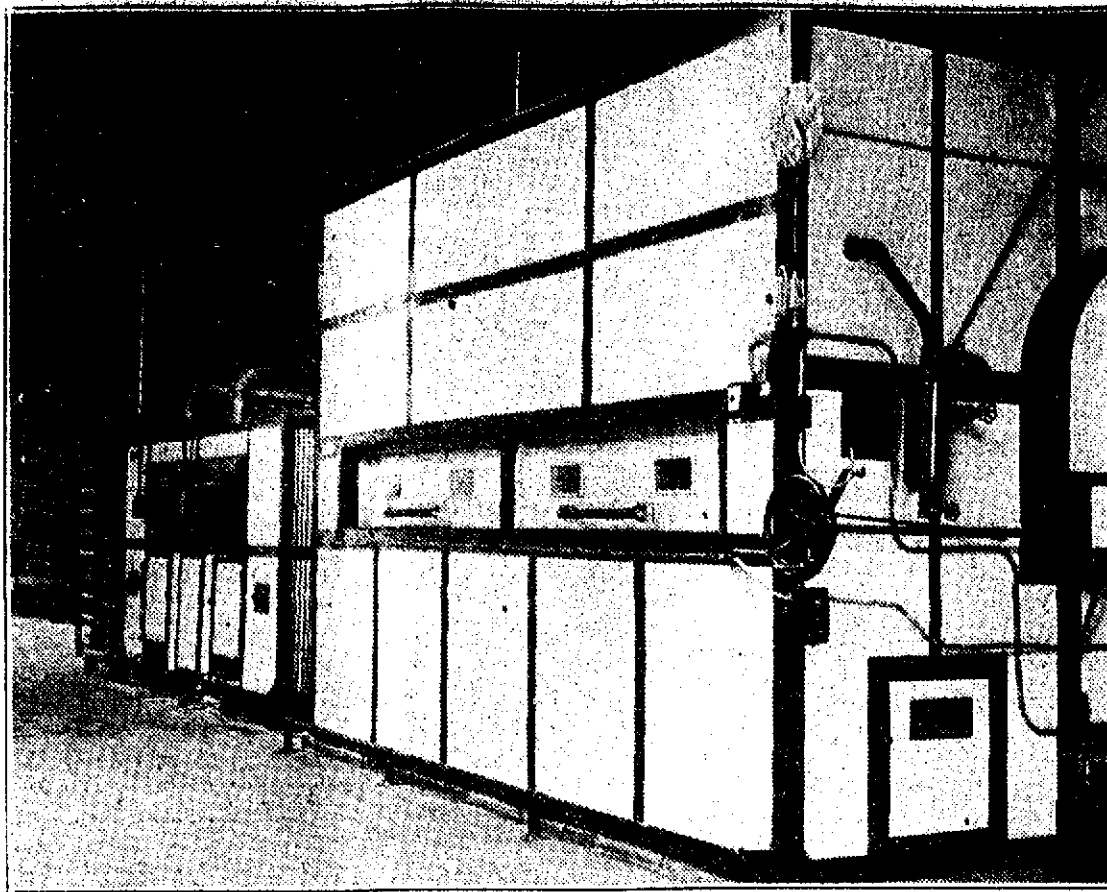

Even in the kitchen, oilcloth does not stay faded—or, properly, glued—to the wooden table. It becomes polka-dot draperies on the windows—with plain color tie-backs and scalloped valance. It cheerfully covers canisters and old waste-baskets.

In the bedroom, the new oilcloth is dainty in chintz patterns, with white grounds and pastel flowers. It makes crisp pleated skirts for dressing tables and novel window shades behind ruffled curtains.

Very new is a distinctive paisley design which comes in several combinations on a white ground and rich dark red green and blue on a gray ground. Of course, we've used oilcloth in the closet for a long time, but here again, the new patterns have found new uses. The under sides of high shelves, as well as the tops, need one of the new solid colored cloths; dress and shoe bags and hat box covers should be done in plaid trimmed with the same solid color.

In 1439, an artisan at the court of Philip the Good, of Burgundy, made a brass clock with a single hand which still keeps good time.

New $5,000 Revolving Oven Is Installed by the City Bakery

Roy Jones, proprietor of the City Bakery, opens 1937 with a newly-installed revolving oven that is one of the largest and most expensive machines to be set up in Hope in recent years. The new oven, manufactured by Middleby-Marshall Oven company, of Chicago and St. Louis, cost approximately $5,000 installed, and has a capacity of 14,000 loaves per 24 hours.

The picture shows the new oven looming up over the old one, which is in the background. The old one also is a Middleby-Marshall company product, a much earlier and smaller model.

The new oven has 25 per cent greater capacity, effects a saving of 25 per cent in gas fuel, and produces a more uniformly-baked loaf of bread.

The machine can be fired up from "cold" to a temperature of 450 degrees in 25 minutes, and is quickly adjustable to the making of City Bakery's famous Blue Ribbon bread, or to cake heat, or other bakery products' requirements.

The oven is heated by gas, is driven by electricity, and has electric controls for heat intensity.

The bread-pans are placed in mechanical trays which revolve perpendicularly around the oven, each loaf passing from top to bottom, and from side to side, thus assuring uniform baking for every loaf.

The new oven was shipped to Hope in October, and installation was completed just at the close of 1936.

New Deal in South Dakota a Failure

Rural Credit System Folded Up With Debt of 40
Million Dollars

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON.—Long before the New Deal took hold, a New Deal of slightly different model was tried out in South Dakota. New-Dealer-in-Chief was Republican Peter Norbeck, then governor, more recently senator, now dead.

Traditionally the Dakotas have an abiding faith in the efficacy of government to solve the people's ills. So when Norbeck, the successful well-driller, became governor, he found a community willing to go with him in governmental experiments.

The state started a coal mine, a rural credit system, a cement plant, hail insurance and a bank guarantee law. Those were still going concerns when Norbeck, immensely popular with progressives, was elected to the senate in 1920.

After that, the deluge. His rural credit system folded up with a $40,000,000 debt. Ten years after the program was undertaken, all had failed except the cement plant.

These difficulties did not upset Norbeck. He was re-elected again and again as an independent Republican, coming through 1932 with a 25,000 majority. Democrats swept every other
